

CFS RFP 2016-005 SEXUAL REHABILITATIVE PROGRAMS (SRP)

Question #	Question	Response
1	In the General Proposal section it notes that if there is information that is considered confidential by the respondent, that a version of the RFP be submitted on an additional disc in redacted form. On the redacted RFP would we put placeholder sheets showing what would be in the section but has been deemed proprietary or confidential? In the hard copy version, should the areas with the confidential information be presented as an attachment/appendix with a reference page/placeholder, or should it appear in the order of the RFP outline with a note that the section is confidential/proprietary, or is the material to be presented fully without any notation as the redacted disc version is the only publicly viewable version? The 2011 RFP guidelines directed respondents to denote any confidential information to marked as such and be submitted under a separate cover. I just want to be certain that the confidential/proprietary information is only accessible by the intended parties.	You should redact the confidential information in the separate disc that will be marked as "Redacted" as that will be the information that is publically viewable. On the hard copy version of the proposal, you will need to include as an attachment to the Statement of Acknowledgement the basis for the information that is confidential and that can include an outline of the specific information that is considered confidential.
